WEATHERHEAD EAST ASIAN INSTITUTE GRADUATE COURSE BULLETIN
ACADEMIC YEAR 2010-2011 COURSE OFFERINGS, PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS, AND FELLOWSHIPS

The Weatherhead East Asian Institute Graduate Course Bulletin is intended to provide a listing of East Asia-related graduate and language courses at Columbia. While we try to include all courses in that category, some courses are posted after the bulletin has been printed. For the most up-to-date information on courses, go to the online Directory of Classes at <http://www.columbia.edu/cu/bulletin/uwb>.

This course bulletin also explains the requirements for the Weatherhead East Asian Institute Certificate, the East Asian Regional Specialization within the School of International and Public Affairs (SIPA), and the Master of Arts in Regional Studies–East Asia (MARSEA).

- Spring 2011 Japanese Urbanism
ARCH A4460 Call # 99691 Location: Avery 408 Pts: 3
Lynne Breslin Day(s)/Time: W 11:00 AM to 1:00 PM
Using an interdisciplinary approach, this seminar will explore Japanese urbanism and Tokyo. Urban theories, history, geography, fictions, films, sociology and anthropology along with cultural critiques will help situate the more personal experiences of the metropolis and the new "global city." In considering the formation of urban/geographical entities, its infrastructure and underlying ideologies of these urban constructs, we will also attempt to uncover the mechanisms of the development of collective identities and individual reconciliations. Theoretical readings, traditional strategies for penetrating cities will be juxtaposed to literature, film and personal testimonies.
- Spring 2011 Asian Urbanism Now
ARCH A6835 Call # 87200 Location: Avery 115 Pts: 3
Geeta Mehta Day(s)/Time: M 11:00 AM to 1:00 PM
The intensity and scale of urban growth in Asia is one of the most exciting and alarming developments in recent history. Three cities that are the focus of this class- Tokyo, Shanghai, and Mumbai are among the largest mega cities in the world. While Tokyo deals with the deepening economic crises and aging population, the skyline of Shanghai and Mumbai are rising with iconic buildings amid large areas that are still struggling to come out of poverty. The case studies of Tokyo, Shanghai, and Mumbai will be discussed in this course within the broad context of Asia. The urban form, physical and socio-economic infrastructure, and future plans in each metropolis will be critically analyzed. Ways in which these cities respond to and are influenced by the issues of globalization, governance, environmental sustainability and social equity will be compared to each other, as well as other world cities.

ART HISTORY

- Fall 2010 Chinese Art under the Mongols
ART G8105 Call # 83989 Location: SCH 930 Pts: 3
Robert Harrist Day/Time: M 4:10 PM to 6:00 PM
See department website for application. Focused on works in a major exhibition at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, this seminar on arts of the Yuan dynasty (1279-1368) will address topics such as the definition of Mongol identity as expressed in the visual arts produced in China, the continuation of workshop and professional painting traditions illuminated by recent archaeological discoveries, relationships among the arts of different media, including metalwork, ceramics, and textiles; the seminar also will require student to reexamine long accepted notions of the relationship between "self-expression" and the social dimensions of literati painting and calligraphy.
- Fall 2010 Japanese Architecture: Tokyo
ART G8126 Call # 08328 Location: SCH 934 Pts: 3
Jonathan Reynolds Day/Time: T 10:00AM to 11:50 AM
This seminar will take a broadly interdisciplinary approach to the history of the complex and dynamic city of Tokyo from the mid-19th century to the present. There will be special emphasis on the visual representation of Tokyo throughout this turbulent period. The class will discuss the impact that industrialization and sustained migration have had on the city's housing and infrastructure. The class will analyze attempts at city planning from the Ginza Brick Town of the 1870s to the so-called “new town” suburban developments since the 1960s. We will attempt to reconcile the bucolic prints of the 1910s through the 1930s with the crowding and pollution and political violence that characterized that period. We will debate the politics of the photography of the street by Kuwabara Kineo and Hamaya Hiroshi in the 1930s and by Hayashi Tadahiko and Watanabe Yoshio during the Allied Occupation, and will consider why apocalyptic imagery is so pervasive in the treatment of Tokyo in post-war film and anime. The high-tech, multi-media treatment of Tokyo at major museums and recent international exhibitions will also be examined.

Spring 2011 Modern Japanese Architecture
AHIS W4110 Call # 01934 Location: Diana Ctr LL103 Pts: 3
Jonathan Reynolds Day/Time: MW 1:10 PM to 2:25 PM

Spring 2011 Birds, Flowers, and Gardens in Chinese Painting & Decorative Arts
AHIS G8102 Call # 11200 Location: SCH 934 Pts: 3
Robert Harrist Day/Time: M 2:10 PM to 4:00 PM
 An examination of bird and flower painting, representations of gardens, and decorative arts with special emphasis on issues of symbolism, patronage, the relationship between words and images, the ritual uses of painting, and the relationship between pictorial style and visual experience.

Spring 2011 Modern & Contemporary Art in China
ART G8495 Call # 14696 Location: SCH 934 Pts: 3
John Rajchman Day/Time: W 2:10 PM to 4:00 PM
 Must attend first class for admission. In the last two decades, a contemporary visual art has arisen in Mainland China on an unprecedented scale and on a peculiar calendar, arising after the death of Mao, later encouraged by new economic policies, auction houses and market forces, biennials and fairs. In this Seminar, we explore this on-going episode and its implications within the emerging field of global art history and theory and the very idea of 'the contemporary'. We first look at the question of documents and methods available for its study in the context of new translations and intellectual debates. We then focus on the work of several key artists whose work refracts these questions and take up a number of specific current issues within the field: how the rise of contemporary ink painting draws on Asian visual tradition in new ways; how new museum expansions in Asia pose questions for the old nineteenth European 'museum without walls'; and how the uses of aesthetic or critical strategies of documentation, fiction, and realism depart from earlier forms. With the participation of a number of artists, critics and curators, and geared to related events in New York City, the Seminar is thus conceived as a laboratory for a critical investigation of the field, and is open to qualified students in all relevant disciplines and departments.

EAAS G9500 Call # 78597 Location: HAM 406 Pts: 3
Theodore Hughes Day/Time: R 4:10 PM to 6:00 PM
 In this course, we will examine issues of class, gender, the production of nation under Japanese rule, and the relation between assimilation and resistance in the late colonial literary and cultural fields. We will then trace the emergence of separate literary fields informed by rightist and leftist nationalisms in the immediate post-liberation period (1945-48). Finally, we will analyze the intersections between literary/critical texts and the postcolonial history of South Korea (marked by national division, war, anticommunism, developmentalism, neoliberalism). Majority of readings are in Korean.
- Spring 2011
- Critical Approaches to East Asia in the Social Sciences
EAAS W4102 Call # 02504 Location: MIL 227 Pts: 4
Sun-Chul Kim Day/Time: R 4:10 PM to 6:00 PM
 Introduces students to social science research on East Asia (primarily China, Korea, and Japan) by examining, first, the role of culture and the state in East Asian development, second, the social and political consequences of economic development.

- Spring 2011
- Contemporary Japanese Cinema
EAAS W4357 Call # 62396 Location: HAM 503 Pts: 3
Hikari Hori Day/Time: M 6:10 PM to 8:00 PM
 Mandatory film screenings on Mondays (8:10 PM to 10:00 PM). By introducing important films and directors, this course examines issues both in the field of Japanese cinema and in popular cultural discourse from the 1980s to the present. Directors' oeuvres, social and cultural backgrounds, film theories, and analysis of the works are introduced. Reading assignments include writings drawn from perspectives of auteurism, formal analysis, feminist critique, national cinema, cultural studies, and theories of globalization. These various readings will assist students in critically examining filmic texts, and developing their own views of the works and issues that films raise. Moreover, the course is designed to enhance students' further understanding of Japanese society both in the domestic and global contexts by studying popular media.
- Spring 2011
- Contention & Democracy in South Korea
EAAS W4510 Call # 07647 Location: MIL 325 Pts: 3
Sun-Chul Kim Day/Time: T 4:10 PM to 6:00 PM
 An examination of the interaction between popular contention and formal politics, long characteristic of the dynamic, if unstable nature of South Korean political processes. By examining major paradigms and testing them against historical realities, students acquire a better understanding of the interplay between contention and democracy in general and South Korean politics in particular.

- Spring 2011 Culture and Art in Contemporary Tibet
EAAS W4545 Call # 99796 Location: HAM 408 Pts: 3
Robert Barnett Day/Time: M 2:10 PM to 3:55 PM
 In this course, we study films, poems, stories, paintings, pop songs and other forms of cultural product that have been made by Tibetans in the last 3 or 4 decades, together with some made by others in their name or in their areas. We discuss questions of identity, survival, history and the politics of representation. We'll look at questions about cultures and continuity; about whether and how we as outsiders can come to understand or interpret the culture of a country whose language and history we may barely know; about the interplay of texts, politics, and power; and about ways of reading and interpreting artworks and the meanings that they generate in politically charged societies and communities.
- Spring 2011 Survey of Tibetan Literature
EAAS W4553 Call # 67900 Location: HAM 408 Pts: 4
Lauran Hartley Day/Time: W 4:10 PM to 6:00 PM
 The primary aim of this course, which is designed for both undergraduate and graduate students, is to introduce a sample of Tibetan literary works spanning from the Tibetan imperial period to the present-day. We shall focus on belles-lettres (available in English translation) by past and contemporary Tibetan scholars whose works have found special salience among Tibetan intellectuals in the People's Republic of China. We will undertake close readings of these texts, in addition to discussing general characteristics of the genres they represent. Special emphasis will be placed on vernacular literature, and landmark works from the post-Mao period. This course will not provide an overview of religious and philosophical literature.
- Spring 2011 Women Visionaries in Tibet and East Asia
EAAS W4560 Call # 06492 Location: Altschul 903 Pts: 4
Annabella C. Pitkin Day/Time: W 2:10 PM to 4:00 PM
- Spring 2011 Critical Approaches to East Asian Studies
EAAS G6400 Call # 68248 Location: KNT 522C Pts: 3
Tomi Suzuki Day/Time: R 2:10 PM to 4:00 PM
 Restricted to 1st Year EALAC M.A. Students in Literary & Cultural Studies.
- Spring 2011 Censorship and Visual Culture in Modern Japan
EAAS G6500 Call # 87705 Location: FAY 301M Pts: 3
Hikari Hori Day/Time: W 6:10 PM to 8:00 PM

HIST G8863 Call # 22702 Location: FAY 302 Pts: 4
Charles Armstrong Day/Time: W 2:10 PM to 4:00 PM
 This course will explore America's "nation-building" experiences in eastern Asia from the turn of the twentieth century to the late 1970s, with a focus on three specific projects: the colonization of the Philippines (1899-1946), the post war occupations of South Korea and Japan (1945-1948/52), and the alliance with South Vietnam (1954-1975). Students will critique the major scholarship in this field through close readings, book reviews and analytical paper. Those wishing to take the course as a research seminar have the option of writing a major research paper based on primary sources.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

- Fall 2010 Gender & Development in Southeast Asia
REGN U6639 Call # 58503 Location: IAB 901 Pts: 3
Kristy Kelly Day/Time: W 11:00 AM to 12:50 PM
 This course is designed to introduce students to issues of gender and development in Southeast Asia in comparative context. This course uses the context of development in Southeast Asia to critically engage with issues important to development planners, national leaders and women's groups throughout Southeast Asia.

- Fall 2010 China's New Marketplace
REGN U8600 Call # 78828 Location: IAB 409 Pts: 3
Daniel Rosen Day/Time: T 6:10 PM to 8:00 PM
China's move to a market economic system and integration with the world presents the greatest "shock" to the international economy of our era, and has significant implications for decision-making in business and in policy. The purpose of this class is to empower future China practitioners in the commercial and policy realms by examining real-time applied issues from both macro-economic and micro-economic perspectives, and set them in their larger context beyond economics. Students will develop an understanding of Chinese economic dynamics, the relationship between the private and public sectors, and the relationship of China to the broader regional and global economy.
- Fall 2010 Comparative Politics & Reform in China
INAF U8616 Call # 52554 Location: IAB 901 Pts: 3
Yuen Yuen Ang Day/Time: T 9:00 AM to 10:50 AM
In this seminar, we consider how the case of reform-era China enriches or challenges major theories in comparative politics and political economy. Our objectives are: (a) to survey existing literature in the China field on selected core themes in political science; (b) to consider how abiding issues in the comparative literature manifest in a non-democratic and transitional context like China; and (c) consider the theoretical and methodological challenges of doing comparative research using China as a major case. The course aims to prepare graduate students to develop research projects specifically on contemporary China and more broadly on projects that seek to integrate area studies with comparative approaches.

REGN U6638 Call # 72849 Location: IAB 501 Pts: 3
Kristy Kelly Day/Time: W 11:00 AM to 12:50 PM
This course will examine Southeast Asia as a region, from intersecting historical, cultural, political and economic perspectives. We will take as our starting point that transnational processes have shaped and continue to shape personal biographies, specific nation-building projects and international economic and political relations. This course draws on in-depth field work from the social sciences, and takes an intersectional approach (race, class and gender), to introduce students to how transnational processes of globalization – namely economic integration, cross-border migrations, and technological innovations – are shifting what it means to be "global" in Southeast Asia. This course will examine the challenges local communities face in managing education, health care, their environment, borders, capital and their families in the context of increasing urbanization, immigration and digitization. Throughout the course, students will be asked to critically examine how global-local binaries have been constructed to explain social change, what relationship this has to how change is experienced at different levels of social scale, and how these binaries are being resisted, challenged, ignored and transformed in social science research in and about Southeast Asia.

Note: Registration priority is given to Law_School students, but other students may cross-register. Check with the course instructor and with your home school for cross-registration procedures.

Fall 2010Law & Legal Institutions in China*LAW L6271 Call # 46801 Location: TBAPts: 3*Benjamin Liebman*Day(s)/Time: TR 1:20 PM to 2:40 PM

A survey of contemporary Chinese legal attitudes and institutions in historical and comparative perspective. The course begins with a brief examination of certain key themes and practices in China's traditional legal order and an appraisal of China's early-twentieth-century effort to import a Western legal model. The major portion of the term is devoted to a study of formal and informal legal institutions and procedures in the criminal and civil processes of the People's Republic of China and China's contemporary legal reform efforts. Topics will include an examination of the roles of the legal profession and the judiciary, the sources of law in contemporary China, efforts to use law to address China's growing environmental problems, and the development of China's legal framework governing financial markets.

Fall 2010China in the WTO*LAW L9214 Call # 84006Location: TBA*Pts: 2*Merit Janow/Petros Mavroidis/Benjamin Liebman Day(s)/Time: T 4:20 PM to 6:10 PM

This seminar will take up a number of key issues facing the international trading system by China's entry into the WTO, the disputes that have arisen between China and its trading partners and certain cutting edge legal issues having to do with China as an important global player in international trade and investment. The seminar will pay particular attention to areas such as the following: cases before the WTO; China's internal market distribution, intellectual property issues, competition law, currency matters, and investment law and policy matters. Other key areas such as climate and bilateral US-China issues will also be examined. Leading experts and practitioners will participate in the seminar. The course is inter-disciplinary with an emphasis on legal dimensions. Interested students should bring the law school form on the first day of class to get permission from the instructor.

Spring 2011Japanese Law and Legal Institutions*LAW L6273 Call # 83456 Location: JGH 304Pts: 3*Curtis J. Milhaupt*Day/Time: MW 1:20 PM to 2:40 PM

This course provides a critical introduction to the institutions and actors that comprise the Japanese legal system. Topics covered include the legal profession, formal and informal dispute resolution mechanisms, employment law, corporate law and governance, and economic regulation. Major theoretical debates about the role of law in Japan are examined in connection with each substantive topic. Throughout the course, law is placed within the context of Japanese social, political, and economic institutions. During the last several weeks of the semester, Visiting Professors from the University of Tokyo lead the class on topics related to their individual fields of expertise. All class materials and instruction are in English; Japanese language ability and knowledge of Japan, while helpful, are not prerequisites. The grade for the course is based on a proctored examination, a short paper, and class performance. Class participation is required of all students.

Spring 2011Contemporary Issues in Business Law of South and North Korea*LAW L9436 Call # 21800 Location: WH 304Pts: 2*Jeong-Ho Roh*Day/Time: W 4: 20 PM to 6:10 PM

The Korean Peninsula remains a divided nation, a remnant of the Cold War era. One the one hand, South Korea has risen from the ashes of the Korean War to become a vibrant democracy and the 12th largest economy in the world. North Korea, on the other hand, remains a country whose economic legal and political system has not changed to a large measure during the past 50 years. North Korea to this day remains a threat to international peace but at the same time have attempted to open up to the Western world. This seminar attempts to examine the legal and political systems of the two Koreas with particular emphasis on the business law environment. This seminar assumes that students have little or no background experience or knowledge of the Korean legal system. Korean language capability is not required.

Spring 2011Seminar in Advanced Research in Japanese Law*LAW L9439*Call # 22802*Location: JGH 908*Pts: 1*Yasuhide Watanabe*Day/Time: M 2:50 PM to 3:50 PM

This seminar, taught by an experienced Japanese lawyer practicing in New York, provides exposure to major topics in Japanese law, using original sources. The seminar will focus on judicial precedents relating to the Civil Code. Participants will learn legal concepts, vocabulary, and approaches to legal issues in a civil law country while improving their professional Japanese language capability. Other important laws such as contract, corporate, securities, employment, and anti-monopoly law, as well as dispute resolution mechanisms will also be introduced. Through examination and discussion of primary legal sources, the seminar provides a unique opportunity to develop an advanced understanding of the Japanese legal system. The course is open to any student who is relatively proficient in reading Japanese, but fluency is not required and no knowledge of Japanese legal vocabulary is assumed. Any student with significant exposure to the Japanese language is welcome, as long as they are interested in learning Japanese legal vocabulary and working with Japanese legal documents. The course will be graded on a Credit/Fail basis. Regular attendance is required.

This seminar will be devoted to reading and discussing representative prose fiction in literary Chinese and vernacular Korean from the fifteenth to the nineteenth century. We will concentrate on three points: 1) the questions of canon formation and genres; 2) a close reading and analysis of literary texts in the context of the canonicity of texts; 3) the diglossic literary culture of Korea and its cultural significations (we will read stories written both in Korean and literary Chinese. Those stories written in literary Chinese, however, will be accompanied by their Korean translations. It is acceptable to read them in Korean); 4) gender, genre and narration. When it is desirable, theoretical literature or other related works will be read in conjunction.

George Packard Day/Time: W 6:10 PM to 8:00 PM
 This course starts with a broad look at the history of US-Japan relations from the arrival of Commodore Perry in Tokyo Bay 150 years ago, and seeks answers to why the relationship has been marked by conflict and a major war. It then looks at how the relationship evolved as a result of the Pacific War, Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Japan's surrender, the US Occupation and the San Francisco Peace Treaty. What was the legacy of the Occupation? How did the alliance develop between these former rivals? What was the environment of Northeast Asia that drove the alliance? What were the costs and benefits of alliance to each nation? The course then analyzes the trade disputes and economic frictions of the 1970's and 1980's, looks into the rise of revisionism and American fears of Japan as a threat to its security. Finally the course covers events from the 1990's to the present, including the bursting of Japan's "bubble economy," the Clinton, Bush and Koizumi policies, "Japan-passing" in Washington, and the crisis on the Korean Peninsula. Students are encouraged to take and defend controversial views on major events.

CHINESEGeneral Information

Admission to Chinese Courses: Please see EALAC for information on the language placement test and schedule. Please also note that students whose native language is not English are not required to take an additional foreign language if they have completed the secondary school requirement in the native language.

For more information on Chinese language courses please visit the Chinese Language Program website at <<http://www.columbia.edu/cu/ealac/chinese/>>

Introductory Chinese For beginners who wish to study Chinese at a slower pace. The entire course consists of two parts covering the same material as the first semester of Elementary Chinese (C1101/F1101). Students who have successfully completed the Courses I and II (W1010-1011) will be admitted to Elementary Chinese II (C1102y/F1102y) in the spring semester. Alternatively a student graduated from Course I and/or II can choose to study in a summer or another program and be placed into the intermediate Chinese course if he or she passes the placement test.

Elementary Chinese (Level 1)

- N-Sections: For students with zero or limited background in Chinese.
- W-Sections: For students of Chinese heritage or advanced beginners with Mandarin speaking ability but minimal reading and writing skills.

Note: Advanced beginners or heritage students who can speak Mandarin will NOT be accepted into the N sections.

Intermediate Chinese (Level 2)

- N-Sections: Continuation of Elementary Chinese N focusing on further development of listening, speaking, reading and writing skills.
- W-Sections: Continuation of Elementary Chinese W focusing on reading skills and written language. Open to students of Chinese heritage or those with good speaking skills in Chinese only.

Advanced Chinese I (Level 3)

- N-Sections: Continuation of the Intermediate N course focusing on more sophisticated language usage and fluency as well as reading skills with systematic vocabulary expansion.
- W-Section: Continuation of Intermediate W courses focusing on practical writing skills and semi-formal or formal style of Chinese used in various professional settings. Open to students with good speaking skills in Chinese only.

Other Advanced Courses (Levels 4 -5) Please see the course list.

For detailed Chinese language course listings, please see the Department of East Asian Language and Cultures website at <<http://www.columbia.edu/cu/ealac/>> or the Directory of Classes at <<http://www.columbia.edu/cu/bulletin/uwb/>>.

WEATHERHEAD EAST ASIAN INSTITUTE CERTIFICATE

Introduction

The Weatherhead East Asian Institute Certificate attests to specialized knowledge of a language and country of the Asia Pacific region and can be earned by matriculated Columbia graduate students not enrolled in an East Asian area/regional studies degree program. Students may choose from among three certificate options: a focus on modern China, modern Japan, or modern Korea.

Summary of Requirements

- (1) Language: the student demonstrates fourth-year level language proficiency for one country of study (China, Japan, or Korea) either by completing the appropriate course work at Columbia or by demonstrating comparable proficiency on language placement examinations administered by the Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures. Since the emphasis is upon specified levels of language ability, no credit for course work necessary to attain the required level of proficiency (fourth year) is granted toward the Certificate.
- (2) Course Work: seven graduate level East Asia courses (at least three credits each) according to the requirements of the student's chosen program of study (see Coursework Requirements below). Students using Chinese or Japanese to meet the language requirement may count one fifth-year language course; the remaining course work must be selected from non-language offerings. Many of the courses also satisfy program requirements for the student's school or department.

Language Requirement

Students must achieve a working competence in one East Asian language, to be demonstrated as follows:

- (1) Chinese, Japanese, and Korean (depending on the certificate to be earned): by completion of the fourth-year course at Columbia with a grade of B or higher, or successful completion of the fourth-year or higher level language placement examination administered by the Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures at the beginning of each semester. All entering students who wish to enroll in a language course beyond the first-year level must take the placement examination before registering for courses.

The language requirement must be met with a language that matches the certificate to be earned (i.e., Chinese for the Weatherhead East Asian Institute Certificate in Chinese Studies).

Language courses from the first- through the fourth-year level are offered each academic year. Although these courses meet more frequently than most non-language graduate courses, they are generally considered one course in the typical student's program of four or five courses per semester.

Students may also complete the equivalent of one year of language study during the Columbia summer session. These are intensive courses and students will generally be unable to take other course work during the summer.

Students may count one fifth-year language course as coursework.

Coursework Requirements

Students must complete seven courses (at least three credits each) selected to include work in the modern history of their area of concentration, and at least two colloquia or seminars. All courses must be taken for examination credit ("E" credit) and, with the exception of advanced work in language, be chosen from non-language offerings.

Students may count one fifth year language course as coursework.

Requirements for the Certificate in Chinese Studies

- (1) Two semesters of modern Chinese history (History—East Asia W3880–W3881). Comparable course work may be substituted with written permission of the Weatherhead East Asian Institute Director.
- (2) Three courses selected from at least two different fields; at least one of the three courses must focus on an Asia Pacific country or sub-region other than China or on the region's relations with other countries or regions. "Fields" include disciplines and sub-headings listed in the Institute's bulletin such as: Anthropology, Business, Economics, History and Culture, International Affairs, Law, Literature, Political Science, Religion, and Sociology.
- (3) Two graduate-level colloquia or seminar courses (8000 or 9000-level) on East Asia, at least one of which must focus on China.

Requirements for the Certificate in Japanese Studies

- (1) Two semesters of modern Japanese history (History—East Asia W3870–W3871). Comparable course work may be substituted with written permission of the Weatherhead East Asian Institute Director.
- (2) Three courses selected from at least two different fields; at least one of the three courses must focus on an Asia Pacific country or sub-region other than Japan or on the region's relations with other countries or regions. "Fields" include disciplines and sub-headings listed in the Institute's bulletin such as: Anthropology, Business, Economics, History and Culture, International Affairs, Law, Literature, Political Science, Religion, and Sociology.
- (3) Two graduate-level colloquia or seminar courses (8000 or 9000-level) on East Asia, at least one of which must focus on Japan.

Requirements for the Certificate in Korean Studies

- (1) Two semesters of Korean history (History—East Asia W3862 and W3863). Comparable course work may be substituted with written permission of the Weatherhead East Asian Institute Director.
- (2) Three courses selected from at least two different fields; at least one of the three courses must focus on an Asia Pacific country or sub-region other than Korea or on the region's relations with other countries or regions. "Fields" include disciplines and sub-headings listed in the Institute's bulletin such as: Anthropology, Business, Economics, History and Culture, International Affairs, Law, Literature, Political Science, Religion, and Sociology.
- (3) Two graduate-level colloquia or seminar courses (8000 or 9000-level) on East Asia, at least one of which must focus on Korea.

Requests for Advanced Standing and Exemption from Specific Course Requirements

- (1) Graduate transfer students from other universities may receive up to four courses of credit for comparable graduate work in East Asian studies. Students requesting advanced standing should submit the following material to the Institute's student affairs program officer: a transcript of the relevant courses along with a letter indicating the content of each course and the reasons that it fulfills the course requirement(s) for the certificate. Requests for advanced standing are reviewed by the Director of the Weatherhead East Asian Institute. If approved, the student would receive a letter from the Institute Director indicating that advanced standing had been granted.

Note: Regardless of previous course work, the seminar-colloquium requirement of the Institute must be fulfilled at Columbia.

- (2) Entering students who have completed graduate courses in East Asian studies as undergraduates may be exempted from specific East Asian courses in which they are already prepared. The procedure to be followed is the same as described above for graduate transfer students. However, unless they received an undergraduate degree from Columbia College, and the graduate courses taken exceeded the total courses required for the undergraduate degree, graduate credit will not be granted for these courses.

In exceptional cases, modifications may be made in the Institute Certificate requirements for students entering the program with a significant background in Asian studies. Any revision will be considered on an individual basis, and must be approved in writing by the Institute Director.

Application for the Certificate

To apply, submit a completed Certificate Audit Form, Application for Degree or Certificate form (available at <http://www.columbia.edu/cu/registrar/dgre_gradapp_form.html>), and transcript to the Weatherhead East Asian Institute student affairs program officer.

The materials will be reviewed by the Institute Director and, if approved, the Registrar will be informed that the certificate should be conferred along with the student's diploma.

A complete application must be submitted no later than December 1 for students graduating in May.

For complete information and to download a Certificate Audit form, go to <<http://www.columbia.edu/cu/weai/certificate-program.html>>.

EAST ASIAN REGIONAL SPECIALIZATION WITHIN SIPA

Students in the School of International and Public Affairs (SIPA) may fulfill SIPA's requirement for a specialization by completing the East Asian Regional Specialization. The specialization requires the completion of three graduate-level East Asian studies courses (at least 3 credits each for a total of at least 9 credits). Courses must be drawn from at least two different social science disciplines and cover at least two different East Asian countries.

MASTER OF ARTS IN REGIONAL STUDIES–EAST ASIA (MARSEA)

The Weatherhead East Asian Institute administers the Master of Arts in Regional Studies–East Asia (MARSEA) program through the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences for those wishing to focus on a social science approach to modern East Asia at the master’s level. The program provides interdisciplinary training (intensive exposure to the politics, international relations, modern history, culture, and society of the region) with a country or area of focus. The program, generally completed in one year, is tailored to meet the needs of individuals entering professional careers, mid-career professionals, students preparing for entry into doctoral programs, and those pursuing a professional degree, such as the J.D. or M.B.A., who want to gain regional expertise.

Degree Requirements

Summary of Basic Requirements

- Proficiency equivalent to three years of Chinese, Japanese, or Korean, or two years of modern Tibetan
- Two modern history courses on the country or area of focus
- Six appropriate regional courses (at least two of which are colloquia or seminars)
- Two elective courses
- Minimum of 30 credits in total (approximately 10 courses)
- A master’s thesis

Requirements for the China, Japan, Korea, or Tibet Program

- Proficiency equivalent to the third-year level of Chinese, Japanese, or Korean, or the second-year level of modern Tibetan. The language requirement may be met through coursework or by passing a language placement examination at Columbia. The examination is offered each semester on the Friday before classes begin. For more information contact the Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures at 212-854-5027 or <<http://www.columbia.edu/cu/ealac>>.
- Two courses in the modern history of the appropriate country or area (same as that of language proficiency). Comparable work may be substituted with written permission of the Institute Director.
- Six regional courses selected from at least two different fields: at least one of the six courses must focus on an Asia Pacific country or sub-region other than the student’s country or area of specialization. These courses must include at least two colloquia and/or seminars and are drawn from a wide range of offerings in Anthropology, Business, Economics, History, International Affairs, Literature, Law, Political Science, and Sociology. Courses dealing with the region as a whole or dealing with the region’s relations with other countries or regions may also be taken to fulfill this requirement. Students taking an East Asian language at the fourth-year level or above may count two semesters of language toward this requirement.
- Two elective courses not necessarily dealing with East Asia.
- The master’s thesis must be at least thirty pages in length and deal with a modern or contemporary topic in the social sciences that focuses on East Asia. It must substantially incorporate the student’s country or area of focus, although other countries or areas can be dealt with in the paper.

The requirements listed above must be fulfilled in accordance with Graduate School of Arts and Sciences degree requirements. For complete information go to <<http://www.columbia.edu/cu/weai/marsea.html>>.

FUNDING FOR EAST ASIAN STUDIES

The Weatherhead East Asian Institute offers funding for research, language acquisition, internships, and dissertation write-up during the summer and academic year to selected Columbia graduate and undergraduate students committed to professional and academic engagement with East Asia.

Eligibility varies depending on the particular funding opportunity, so please review the application materials carefully before applying.

The application deadline is March 4, 2011 for projects occurring in summer 2011 or academic year 2011-2012.
